Coutts Library Dedicated

Dedication ceremonies for The Herbert T. Coutts Library, took place on 22 March. Family, friends, and colleagues of Dr. Coutts as well as other interested persons were in attendance as Bruce Peel, Librarian to the University, unveiled a commemorative plaque in the foyer of the Library. A portrait of Dr. Coutts is also in the foyer.

Prior to the unveiling, the appreciative audience listened to remarks by Dr. Coutts, Dean Walter Worth of the Faculty of Education, and Mr. Peel. In introducing Dr. Coutts, Dean of the Faculty of Education from 1955 to 1972, Dr. Worth termed him "a builder who stimulated the graduate studies program and the service function of the Faculty." His two main attributes, said Dean Worth, were an insistence upon high standards and an astounding degree of personal integrity. Dr. Worth described the Faculty as "the house that Coutts built."

Dr. Coutts spoke at length on the history of the Faculty, saying that when he was appointed Dean he was like "an unskilled surfer carried forward by a succession of big waves." One such "wave" was the marked increase in student enrolment. When Dr. Coutts took office, there were 850 students; when he retired, the student population was on the order of 4,500. Dr. Coutts, who first joined the staff of the University of Alberta in 1946, cautioned that planning for decreased University enrolment must be carried out in concert with the demand for increased services on a decreased budget.

Mr. Peel paid tribute to Dr. Coutts' high quality work and leadership, noting that his years as Dean coincided with the rapid growth of the University.

The Education Library was re-named The Herbert T. Coutts Library in honor of Dr. Coutts' "particularly substantial contributions to the growth and development of the Faculty of Education, and to The University of Alberta."

Jubilee Year 1982-83

In June 1982, The University of Alberta will embark on its seventy-fifth academic session. Although the University was formally established on 9 May 1906, when Royal Assent was given to the University Act—a date recorded in the Calendar as Charter Day and celebrated until the mid 1930s as Founders' Day, the work of our institution began in earnest on 25 September 1908 when classes began in the first academic session. On 1 January of the same year the first President, Dr. H.M. Tory, formerly of McGill University, took up office. On 30 March the first formal meeting of The University of Alberta Senate was convened under the direction of the recently appointed Chancellor Stuart, and on 13 October there was held the first academic convocation.

The University has come a long way since 1908. In that year the operating budget was a mere $25,000, our physical space comprised 258 acres, there were only forty-five students, and the total staff (including the President and non-academic personnel) numbered only five. Today, our University has an operating budget of almost $150 million, possesses a total acreage of almost 10,000, and employs approximately 7,500 academic and non-academic staff. In 1977-78 they were about 19,500 full-time students and 11,200 part-time students registered.

Size, however, has never been a condition of excellence and great size does not necessarily lead to a diminution of quality. Our University has served Alberta, Canada and the world for almost seventy-five years. In the metropolitan area of Edmonton alone, about one out of every nine people have or have had some connection with the University, as students or as employees. We have every right to be proud. Our graduates are spread around the globe, and their achievements continue to have great impact on the quality of life for all people.

Our seventy-fifth academic session, therefore, will figure as a milestone in the history of The University of Alberta. It is a time for self appraisal but also one for celebration. To this end, a 75th Anniversary Policy Group and an executive 75th Anniversary Task Force group have been set up under the direction of Dr. W.A. Preshing of the Office of Community Relations. The groups include representatives of all the constituent groups on campus, and their members are actively searching out ways in which the celebrations might best be conducted. Seminars and symposia are proposed in a wide range of disciplines and studies. Special sporting and cultural events are envisaged, each of which will record to a greater or lesser degree our achievements in the last seven and one half decades. A competition will be held for students at the University to provide a fitting "logo" for the anniversary celebrations. There has even been an exciting proposal for the complete redevelopment of the Varsity Stadium to transform it into a cultural arts and recreation complex.

The members of the 75th Anniversary Policy Group are: W.A. Preshing, Chairman (Community Relations); M. Andrekson (Board of Governors); T. Dennis (Home Economics); G.L. Berry (Secondary Education); M. Lobay (Senate); J. Wilson (NASA); L.P. Milligan (Animal Science); B. Mills (GSA); R.G. Glassford (Physical Education); H.J. McLachlin (Physical Education); C. Hume (Students' Union); and R.J. Edgar (Alumni Association).

The members of the Task Force Group are: D. Burns (Registrar's Office)—convocation events and liaison with municipal events; C. Gordon-Craig (English)—academic events; J. Malone (Bookstore)—publicity and related events; H. Collinson (University Collections)—exhibits, displays and liaison with the Provincial Museum and Archives; G.H. Sperber (Dentistry)—symposia; and M. Roeder (Music)—artistic and musical events.

Folio readers should remember that this is your University and your celebration. The 75th Anniversary Task Force Group needs your participation and your ideas. Send your suggestions, therefore, to any of the people named above or to Dr. W.A. Preshing, Office of Community Relations, 420 Athabasca Hall, telephone 432-2325. □

Classics' School Program

Each year Edmonton junior high and high school students studying classical literature and topics of ancient history are offered a special learning opportunity by members of the Department of Classics.

Full-time staff members and sessional instructors make themselves available to speak on any classical theme relevant to the students' course studies. Dr. Rosemary Nielsen, coordinator of the program, says that over its four-year development lectures have been well received on topics ranging from mythology to Latin and Greek literature, archaeology, ancient jewellery, tools and artifacts, and comparisons of today's music with classical poetry forms. Lecturers often use slides and visual materials to enhance their presentations.

Speakers are available on request. They will talk on themes suggested by teachers and tailored to specific course content. Although most requests pertain to mythology and classical poetry, the Department is prepared to offer presentations on many other topics, including religion, coins, and "gimmicks" used in ancient times. "We have people who are prepared to talk on all sorts of themes, says Dr. Nielsen.

Each talk is designed to make the Classics seem alive to school students. "Their response to us has been really good; it's a lot of fun to go out to the schools," says Dr. Nielsen.

The speakers' list originated as part of a high school enrichment program which was set up to give secondary students a sample of what university classes were like. To date, participation has been limited to approximately 10 schools and Mrs. Nielsen feels that many more can be accommodated.

Any person wishing to inquire about the program should contact Dr. Nielsen in the Department of Classics, telephone 432-2338.
